Expo has universal appeal

FORMER Miss Universe Australia, Kimberley Busted, will promote alternative health and wellness at the Look Good Feel Good Expo next month.

Miss Busted will visit the Lifelixer stand on February 7 between 2pm and 3pm.

"You don't have to be Miss Universe Australia to appreciate (the slogan) 'healthy body, healthy mind equals healthy life'," she said.

NRL football legend Gary Belcher will also talk to fans at the expo, on February 8.

"I've copped my fair share of injuries playing on the field, physically and mentally, and health and wellness is an important factor of our lives at all ages," he said.

"More should be done for public awareness."

Mr Belcher will be available to sign autographs, pass on valuable tips to future football stars and share tales of his football adventures.

The Look Good Feel Good Expo takes place at the Ipswich Civic Hall.
